Boormans Honored at United Church

Members and adherents of the United Church met on Friday evening to honor Mr. and Mrs. J. Boorman who, for a long period of years have been very active in church and Sunday School affairs, are now leaving the district to reside at Wetaskiwin.

After a program by a group of girls, supper was served in the Church basement. An address of commendation and thanks was read by Mr. Bruce Parker and Mr. and Mrs. Boorman were presented with a fluorescent piano lamp in recognition of the services they had rendered in the Church and Sunday School.

Mr. Boorman for many years was superintendent of the Sunday School and also held the position as choir leader, while Mrs. Boorman was particularly active amongst the girls, besides her Sunday School class she was leader of the C.G.L.T. and the Junior Choir. She was also an active worker in the Ladies' Aid and the W.M.S.

Regret on their leaving was expressed and wishes were conveyed for success in their new home.

Sept. 15th Deadline For Wheat Bonuses

September 15 is the cut-off date for making application for the Dominion wheat acreage reduction bonus. Farmers should get their claims filed with their municipal office without delay. It is not necessary for farmers who received the bonus in 1941 to file a preliminary application, but it is necessary for every farmer who wishes to obtain the bonus to file the sworn claim at the municipal office in his district.

Centenarian of Olds Still Active

Mrs. Emilia (Grandma) Moritz celebrated her 100th birthday on Friday, August 28th. Mrs. Moritz was born at Zehden, Germany, and was married to the late Mr. Moritz on November 15th, 1863. One year later, they migrated to the United States and settled in Playna, Illinois moving to State Center, Iowa, in 1876, and from there to Olds in 1905. Since 1910 Mrs. Moritz has resided with her son, Henry C., a well known farmer East of Olds.

Grandma Moritz has remarkable good health, still helping around where she can and although her eyesight is failing, she does considerable knitting.

Mrs. Moritz is the mother of 12 children—six girls and six boys. There are 35 grandchildren, fifty-four great-grandchildren and seven great great-grandchildren.

A short program was held after which Dan Dippel said a few words in honor of his brother, and also told of his friendship with the Reibers. Mrs. Thaler and Edna Thaler sang a duet "The Way of the Cross Leads home." Rev. and Mrs. Amacher also sang "Love Divine."

Mr. and Mrs. Reiber were presented with a woolen blanket and a bouquet of flowers. Mr. Dippel received gifts from his friends.

Chinook and Maintainer Collide

What might have been a serious accident occurred on Monday evening when the north bound Chinook train ran into the town grader at the south railway crossing.

Abe Neufeld was engaged in maintaining the south road going east, he himself operating the grader and his son Raymond driving the tractor. They were crossing the tracks and apparently neither saw or heard the approaching train. The tractor had crossed but the engine hit the grader full on and tore it from the tractor, carrying it up the tracks about 200 feet before the train was brought to a stop. Mr. Neufeld was able to jump off the grader before the train struck but the boy was still on the tractor when the grader was torn away—fortunately neither sustained any injury.

The "cow catcher" of the engine was torn off but little other damage was done to the train, which was able to proceed after 35 minutes delay.

"Church Parade" this Sunday

The Didsbury Detachment of the Calgary Regiment (Tanks) are holding a memorial church parade at the Knox United Church on Sunday, September 6th at 7:30 p.m. This parade is to honor the men of the Canadian Army, particularly the Calgary Regiment, who fell at the battle of Dieppe last month.

As two Didsbury men, Lieut R H. Wallace and Tpr. Jack Bookner, are still missing, let us all attend to pay tribute to their courage and pray that they may yet be safe. Let us not only pay honor to the fallen but also give thanks for the safety of those who returned. Many of these men are our own boys and it is our solemn duty to turn out and thank God that we have such men fighting for us, to save us from oppression.

If we value our Christian church, we must honor and support these brave men who are fighting to save it and all that we hold dear from destruction. Let us not by our absence on Sunday show that we don't care who wins the war or if our boys come home again or not.

"Go to Church this Sunday!"

Celebrate Golden Wedding

On Friday evening, August 28th the Evangelical Church parlor was the scene of a birthday and golden wedding celebration. Mr. Samuel F. Dippel of Kitchener, Ont., was honored on his 84th birthday, and Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Reiber because of their Golden Wedding.

A short program was held after which Dan Dippel said a few words in honor of his brother, and also told of his friendship with the Reibers. Mrs. Thaler and Edna Thaler sang a duet "The Way of the Cross Leads home." Rev. and Mrs. Amacher also sang "Love Divine."

Mr. and Mrs. Reiber were presented with a woolen blanket and a bouquet of flowers. Mr. Dippel received gifts from his friends.

After an enjoyable time refreshments were served.

Obituary.

THOMAS HENRY LEE

An old timer, Thomas Henry Lee, aged 96 years, passed away Saturday, August 29, at the home of Mrs. Cummings in Didsbury, where he had resided for several years.

Mr. Lee was born in Ireland and immigrated with his parents to Nebraska in 1849 where he was educated and where, as a young man he acted as interpreter for the Sioux Indians. Later he contracted and built bridges in several States. He was united in marriage to Miss Alma Schrader also of Nebraska. In 1902 Mr. Lee and his family moved to Bowden, Alberta, where he homesteaded and farmed until 1923 when he retired.

Mr. Lee was a great hunter and sportsman, having brought down many a buffalo in his day and he was one of the crack shots of the old Olde Gun Club for many years.

Mr. Lee was predeceased by his wife in 1927, and is survived by 3 sons, George of Edgemont in South Dakota, Martin on the old home stead at Bowden, and William who is farming near Lacombe.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Chapman in the Bowden United Church on Tuesday September 1st. Interment was made in the family plot in the Bowden cemetery.

Subsidy to be Paid On Milk

Milk producers in Alberta districts of Calgary, Cadomin, Crow's Nest Pass, Edmonton, Jasper, Lethbridge, McLeod, Medicine Hat, Mountain Park and Nordegg, will benefit by the subsidy of 25 cents on the 100 lbs of milk to be paid through an order of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. The subsidy had become effective September 1.

The Board has raised minimum producer prices in all markets where the subsidy is payable. These specific prices mean an average increase of about 10 cents per 100 lbs.

RUSSEL - CASTLE

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in St. Stephen's Church in Calgary Monday, when Irene Dorothy, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Castle of Calgary and Able Seaman Leonard Clayton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Russel of Didsbury, were united in marriage.

The bride looked lovely in her gown of pale blue georgette and matching veil. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations, and was given away by her step father, Mr. Castle. Laura Russel made a pretty bridesmaid in her pink taffeta gown.

Mr. Milton Russel attended his brother.

After the wedding 21 guests were seated at a beautifully decorated table where they enjoyed a lovely dinner.

A Vital Canadian Industry

IN A BOOK ISSUED RECENTLY by the joint board of the Newspaper Association of Canada and the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association some highly interesting facts are given concerning this important industry. It may surprise many Canadians to know that our forests provide us with an industry which exceeds by far that of any other in the Dominion, and which might be called a mainstay of our economic structure. As a source of foreign exchange it ranks next to gold, and is greater than that of copper, wheat and nickel combined. At the present time, it is bringing to Canada annually over a quarter of a billion dollars from the marketing of its products in other lands. The industry is said to affect almost every branch of Canadian endeavor and it has had a great influence on the development of other industries including farming, mining, and transportation. No other undertaking has contributed so much to the extension of hydro-electric power in Canada.

Source Of Revenue

the Dominion. Between 1930 and 1935, which were depression years, the pulp and paper industry brought to Canada $563,000,000. In those same years, the return from gold export was $175,000,000, and from nickel $130,000,000. In 1939 there were 99 pulp and paper plants in Canada. The people employed in this industry numbered nearly 40,000; and the total wages paid amounted to $42,619,311. With the added activity of the industry in wartime all these figures are now considerably increased.

Supplies Needs Both for peace and wartime requirements the industry contributes much to our vital daily needs. In civilian life we draw from it newsprint, book, writing, and wrapping paper and many building products. To the materials of war it contributes a great deal. It is used in the production of explosives, in shells, in land and navy mines, in parts of airplanes and mechanized equipment and many other war weapons. It is also of great value in the building of barracks, war plants and camps. The construction of one battleship requires 15 tons of paper, including that used for the vast number of minute drawings involved in the construction of its guns and equipment. From these facts we are again impressed with the great contribution made by our forests to the national economy. It is clear that our forest lands are an asset to be guarded with care, and that the pulp and paper industry is one that should be supported and maintained as one of our foremost national enterprises.

Fruits - Good To Eat - And Good For You

We are lucky people in this country. We have fruit to eat the year around, fresh, canned or dried. All fruits give us minerals and vitamins.

The High Rankers For Vitamin C—

Some fruits have more vitamin C than others.

They rank: First—Oranges and grapefruit.

Second—Canned or fresh tomatoes.

Third—Canned pineapple.

Note: Canned grapefruit and the juice have almost as much vitamin C as the fresh fruit and at times are cheaper.

Your Money Goes Farther If You Buy—

Small "juice" oranges instead of bigger ones.

Canned grapefruit or grapefruit juice instead of fresh.

Tomato juice in large cans.

Small prunes instead of big ones.

Do You Know That—

Dried fruits in bulk are cheap and taste good.

(Sweet prunes do not need extra sugar.)

Mixed dried fruits can be bought in bulk?

(Smaller pieces but as good flavor.)

Rhubarb in season or soaked dried fruit can replace apples in Brown Betty? (Try it with prunes or apricots.)

Best apple sauce is made from unpeeled apples?

(Better flavor and better color.)

FAVORITE RECIPES—APPLE BROWN BETTY

9  $\frac{1}{2}$ -inch-thick slices bread.

3 tablespoons butter

3 cups thinly sliced apples (4 to 5 apples)

1 cup sugar

2 teaspoons cinnamon

Remove crusts from bread, cut in small cubes and sauté in butter, until evenly browned. Mix apples with sugar and cinnamon. Arrange alternate layers of bread and apples in greased pudding dish. Cover and bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 30 minutes. Uncover and bake, until brown about 15 minutes longer. Serve hot with top milk or sauce. Yield: 6 servings.

STEWED DRIED APRICOTS

Wash dried apricots and soak until plump in just enough water to cover. Cover and simmer in same water about 20 minutes, until fruit is soft. Add sugar to taste and stir until dissolved. Cool covered, to obtain thick syrup.

After you have lived on this diet for a week, write a 500-word essay describing either the economies you have effected or the benefits you have derived. The Health League of Canada will award a ten dollar ($10.00) prize to the writer of the best essay.

The Individual Citizen's Army

A Weekly Column About This And That In Our Canadian Army.
By Alan Maurice Irwin

"What, more drill?" You've probably heard your friends in the Services grumble about drill. I've done it myself. And I've joined in arguments in which John Citizens have held forth on the subject.

In the early days of this new war I found myself lending a ready ear to complaints that "Bow and arrow soldiers" were wasting the boys' time with a lot of "barrack-square stuff."

And for quite a long time, although for its precision and snappiness I like drill, I was inclined to subscribe to the opinion that a lot of it was wasted time, and to label myself a "bow and arrow soldier."

Two weeks ago, when I was first introduced to the new "battle drill," I began to see the light. I suppose the reason for that was because I had to convince Reserve Army recruits that there is a reason for the drill to which so much of their early army life is devoted.

In order to supply myself with good reasons to pass along I had to think about the subject considerably more than I had previously and, as is so often the case, the whole thing fell into a pattern.

Until then my sole excuse for drill had been that it is necessary in the early days of a soldier's training to teach him that he is part of a group and that the group is not capable of functioning as a unit until it has become integrated through constant practice. In addition, of course, there is the fact that a body of men marching under complete discipline will move with less fatigue than a similar body walking at random.

I hadn't thought of the origin of the drill or the underlying reasons for its institution. And I probably wouldn't have puzzled that out for myself yet if it hadn't been necessary for me to study the "battle drill" that is now a part of army training.

There have been one or two articles about Battle Drill written in England and published in Canadian papers. One of them, by Captain Kin Beattie, Toronto newspaperman, who is now Press Liaison Officer at Corps Headquarters, emphasized that it had been received with enthusiasm by the Canadians, but did not go into much detail about the drill itself.

Two reasons for this lack of detail could be that a written description of a drill is a pretty dull subject or that for security reasons no details of the drill are to be made public.

For either or both of these reasons this column will content itself with saying that Battle Drill is a series of exercises designed to make good battle field habits instinctive and that the drill, which can be carried out literally anywhere, is practical and does just what is intended.

Introduction to Battle Drill gave me a shock and brought the realization that "drill" actually can have a goal, that its purpose is not necessarily as abstract as I had thought.

From that shock came the reasoning that "barrack-square soldiering" probably had its origin in something equally useful in the days "away back when."

Now, this is mere supposition, why could not the origin of "form platoon" have been for the purpose of teaching soldiers how to form squares rapidly and instinctively in the days when the "square" was the unit of battle formation?

You remember those gaily-coloured chromos of British infantrymen in battle don't you? The front rank knelt and with its fixed bayonets formed a sort of "cheval de frise" for the protection of the rear rank which stood with muskets poised ready to mow down attackers by volleys.

It is easy enough to picture the troops marching to battle in columns of fours and to imagine the command, "at the halt on the left, form half company." Forming two deep as they carried out the order, the leading group would then be in position to meet a cavalry charge.

It sounds reasonable, doesn't it? And at that time the drill would have as much to recommend it as Battle Drill has today.

Weekly Newspapers Are Carrying On With Reduced Staff

The Amherstburg, Ont., Echo says: The war is making serious inroads on the staffs of weekly newspapers and we doubt, if there is a paper in Ontario, that is not trying to get along with a greatly reduced staff. The situation is getting more acute every day. This will mean smaller papers and a condensation of news. If the newspapers are to continue, it would be a shame if any great number of weekly newspapers were forced to suspend publication due to lack of help and patronage. It is the duty of every merchant and citizen to lend a hand through advertising patronage or otherwise to see that such a condition will not come to pass.

United Nations Depend On India For Products Which Are Both Vital And Useful

THE new tea ration is a timely reminder of the extent of the United Nations' dependence on India. This vast Asiatic sub-continent is one of the richest areas in the world and its plantations, farms, forests, factories and mines are an abundant source of all kinds of products, both useful and vital to the Allied countries. Since the loss of the Straits Settlements with their rich resources of rubber and tin, India has become Canada's third largest source of imports. Among the products she sends the Dominion are tea, jute, peanuts, vegetable oils, spices, chrome ore, hides and cotton.

The bulk of India's wealth is derived from the agricultural enterprises on which 75 per cent. of her huge population depend for a living. By modern methods of flood control, irrigation and cultivation, India's once perennial floods and famines have been conquered and the jungle defeated. Her lands are now tremendously productive, and India leads all other nations in the output of tobacco, sugar and jute besides being the second largest producer of cotton and tea.

Tobacco is grown on a million and a half acres which yield a crop totaling as much as 1,375 million pounds a year. Another four million of India's acres are taken up with the production of sugar and in 1939-40, they produced a crop of 1.4 million tons. Jute is India's second most important agricultural product and the annual output averages about nine million bales. The country enjoys a world monopoly in the production of jute and exports about half of its production raw, turning the remainder into cloth in its own mills. The annual production of cotton, India's most important agricultural product, totals some seven million 400-lb bales a year.

None of the products Canada imports from India forms such a close link between the two countries as tea. Eight out of ten Canadians drink tea and it is estimated that 8,500,000 are affected by the new ration order which exempts only the armed forces and children under 12. The Dominion's normal annual tea imports from India alone total 25 million pounds.

India is the world's greatest tea exporting country and ranks second only to China as a producer. Her annual export crop, which totals 380 million pounds, is about 42 per cent. of total world requirements outside producing countries. This huge crop is grown in 5,000-odd tea gardens which cover upwards to one million acres. In 1938, these gardens absorbed more than $2,000,000 in capital and employed more than 1,000,000 workers.

Approximately 75 per cent. of India's tea exports is normally bought by the United Kingdom, which exports between 10 per cent. and 12 per cent. to other countries such as Russia. In the near future, however, all the crop will be purchased by the British Ministry of Food and distributed to all Allied countries under an International Tea Allocation plan which will also control the Ceylon tea crop and the small amount of tea available for export from British East Africa. Under the plan which is being introduced to solve problems resulting from the loss of tea imports from China, Japan and the Dutch East Indies, each of the Allied countries will obtain an equitable percentage of its normal tea requirements. An amount equal to, if not greater than Canada's normal consumption of 40,000,000 pounds annually, will also be reserved for the use of the armed forces of the various United Nations.

India's annual tea harvest is now reaching its peak and the extent of shipments during the next few months, will answer the question of whether or not Canada's weekly one ounce ration will be increased or allowed to stand.

In addition to producing such huge quantities of tea, jute, cotton, sugar and tobacco, India is also the world's largest producer of hides and skins. It is estimated that there are in India about 225 million head of cattle and buffalo, 46 million sheep and 58 million goats. The country also possesses vast forest resources which yield an almost limitless supply of tanning products: timber, lac, turpentine, and bamboo pulp. Huge quantities of vegetable oils, wood, silk and hemp are also produced in India.

Two little boats destined to join the Royal Navy put into a British port fresh from the shipyards of Canada's east coast and reported brushes en route with Nazi U-boats.

They were the first of new Canadian-built warships making the Atlantic crossing direct to the United Kingdom. They hunted a submarine within two days of their sendoff from the small New Brunswick towns whose names they bear.

It was not long after the first brush with a submarine that they were called on to fight off another attack. They came out of both encounters with flying colors.

A Fitting Symbol

Poles Use Turtle As Sign Of Passive Resistance

One of the mightiest weapons in the hands of Poles in their fight against the invader is passive resistance. The slow-down is among the most important forms of such resistance. Workers employed in plants which are now under German supervision sabotage production not by destroying raw materials or damaging the products, but by slowing down the rate of work, so that tasks which ordinarily require one hour take five or more.

On walls, on fences, on sidewalks and pavements "unknown" hands paint large turtles in chalk, coal, or even tar. Below each turtle are the words: "Work slowly."

Sometimes only a turtle may be seen on a wall, but further on, on the same wall, the inscription "Work slowly," will invariably be found.

The Finest Type Of Worsted Cloth Can Be Produced From Canada's Home-Grown Wool

(By Wellington Jeffers, Financial Editor, Globe & Mail, Toronto)

R T. HON. W. L. MacKENZIE KING, Cabinet Minister, Provincial Premiers and many Western members among others have received convincing proof that Canada can now produce from its home-grown wool the finest type of worsted cloth. A suit length of worsted cloth, (most attractive in color and design, produced from Canadian wool and wholly manufactured in Canada) has been sent to each of these and I have to acknowledge receipt of a similar parcel which fully justifies in texture and appearance all that is said in an accompanying pamphlet, "From the Sheep's Back to Yours, 100 Per Cent. Canadian."

TO PREVENT TROUBLE

All torpedoes sink to the bottom when they miss their target and their engines run down, either through sheer weight or an automatic sinking gear. This prevents them from becoming a potential danger to friendly vessels and also from falling into the hands of the enemy and disclosing mechanical secrets.—Collier's.

This is not a free advertisement for the cloth because it will not be for sale while the war lasts. It was done to demonstrate the possibilities. Both the wool and the machinery are now being employed almost exclusively in the production of wool tops, yarn and cloth for our armed forces but Leslie Biggin, president of The Canadian Wool Co., Ltd., K. Markon, Treasurer of Wool Combing Corporation of Canada, Ltd., and J. W. Downs, President of Coulter & Co., (Canada) Ltd. declare:

"When this job is done, and victory is won, we hope and believe that this all-Canadian product will compete favorably with any similar fabric produced in the world."

More than two years ago this Department was very glad to announce details of a plan to form the Wool Combing Corp. of Canada and later gave details of the modern plant established at Acton, Ontario. It has been long evident that all the way from the sheep's back to the consumer there was an opportunity for adding materially to the income of farmers and with the aid of all processors all the way along, to increase employment if the textile industry could become wholly integrated on a large scale in Canada. We had sorting and scouring in pre-war days of wool clipped, and we had spinning, weaving and dyeing at the other end of the processing road, but combing was largely a missing link. That is now supplied. Previous to this development, worsted cloth could be produced in Canada, but from imported combed wool (or tops as the wool is called after combing). Sometimes it would be from Canadian wool which was exported for combing and was returned as tops. There were a few combs prior to 1941 owned by private manufacturers but these were not available for growers or handlers of Canadian wool. Practically all the worsted fabrics in pre-war days sold in Canada were either imported in the finished state or spun and woven here from wool of foreign origin.

The wool used in these particular suiting grew on the backs of Alberta sheep on various ranches, and was drawn from a pile of 250,000 pounds graded at the Canadian Wool Company's warehouse in Toronto without being in any way handpicked or specially selected. The pamphlet describes and illustrates all the processes of grading, setting, scouring, worsted carding and backwashing, combing to separate the short fibres called noils while producing tops, worsted drawing and spinning, weaving, dyeing and finishing. The brochure is dedicated to the wool grower, spinner and manufacturer with these slogans for each in turn: "Keep 'em growing; keep 'em spinning; keep 'em weaving."

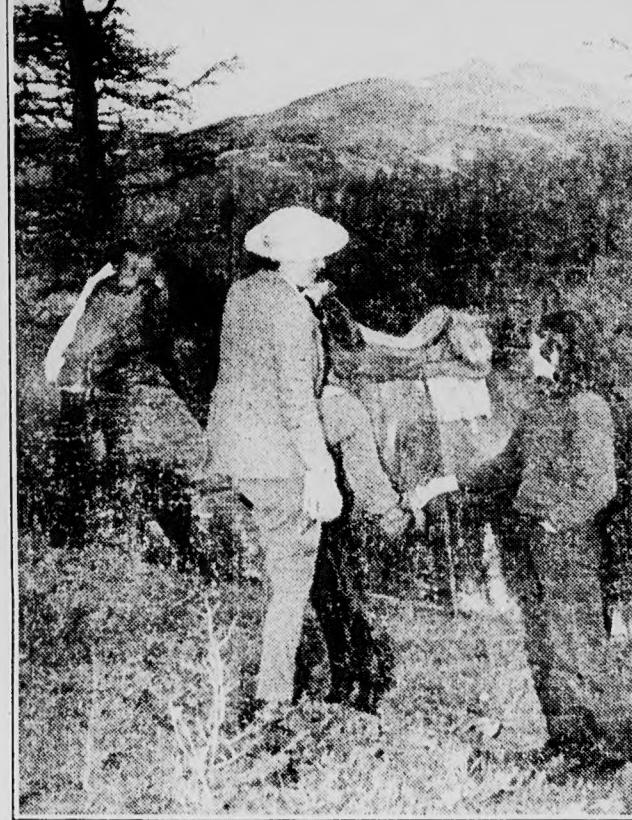

Canadians will hail this achievement as a double purpose one that does credit to private enterprise and to the Government which smooth the way to a larger and better sheep population in Canada and to continuous processing because all this helps in the war effort and is fine planning for post-war days.

NOT CAUGHT AGAIN

When a memorandum passed around a certain Government department, one young pedant scribbled a postscript drawing attention to the fact that the sentence ended with a preposition which caused the original writer to circulate another memorandum complaining that the anonymous postscript was "offensive impertinence up with which I will not put!"—Strand Magazine.

Thirteen-Year-Old Guide

By courtesy of C.P.R.

Horse wrangling for the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies may not come directly under the heading of War Services, but Donna Johnson, age 13, released at least one cowboy to the armed forces when she undertook the duties for the 19th annual trail ride from Banff this summer. Ten horses in her string had to be saddled and bridled for the ride each morning and unsaddled at night, as well as stirrups shortened or lengthened, cinches tightened and the many things that the dudes require of their guide on the trail ride, were all attended to by this young lady from the foothill country west of Calgary. Miss Johnson's home is the lazy JL ranch at Ghost River, Alberta, her father, Laurie Johnson, was head guide for this year's trail ride.

The World of Wheat*HEAVY RAINS AND ABUNDANT WEEDS

The heavy rains of this year have produced an abundant crop of weeds, particularly in fields on which grain was sown. Unfortunately the bulk of these numerous weed plants have set to seed and so when the crop is cut vast quantities of new weed seeds will be scattered in the surface soil. Special efforts should be made to cope with this new and heavy weed infestation.

As quickly as harvest time and threshing will permit, farmers will be well advised to give a light cultivation or harrowing to their fields so as to encourage as many of the new weed seeds as possible to germinate and to grow before the winter sets in. Then the winter freeze-up will kill large quantities of the tender young plants and those that survive the winter will be ready to be killed by a light cultivation as soon as the spring thaw takes place. Cultivating or harrowing this fall is better than plowing, for if plowing is done the weed seeds are merely turned under, will not germinate this fall, but will come up again with the crop of next year to spread twenty times as many weed seeds over the land.

The following factors have tended to decrease the supply or increase the demand: In the U.S.A. as a whole a net reduction in wheat acreage is reported for 1942. European and North African yields are reported to be below average in most regions; bread wheat supplies in India are below normal as a result of war operations.

The following factors have tended to increase the supply or decrease the demand: Canadian and U.S. wheat and feed grain yields are expected to be the best for many years. Argentine supplies of wheat were recently estimated at 100 million bushels compared with 107 million a year ago; early sown crops in Australia are making good progress.

Tough Grain

Tough or damp grain is like the flu in that the sooner you can get rid of it, the better. The farmer with tough grain will be in a tough (G) position, this year. Due to the congestion in public storage, accommodation for tough grain will be extremely limited or entirely lacking.

The volume of tough grain is likely to be increased this year as a result of the more general use of combines, particularly in the hands of inexperienced operators who may start harvesting before the crop is ready.

The following suggestions are reproduced from a statement issued by the Manitoba Department of Agriculture. They have equal significance for Alberta and Saskatchewan farmers.

To Avoid Loss from Tough Grain
Allow grain in stalk or swath to become thoroughly dry after a rain or heavy dew before threshing or combining.

Allow standing grain to become fully ripened before straight combining.
Weedy crops should be swathed before combining. If eight combining such crops add to the moisture content of the threshed grain.

Farm Storage Suggestions
Weed seeds and other foreign material should be removed by cleaning before final storage.

The larger the bin, the greater risk of spoilage.

Where grain must be stored on earth or concrete floors, a foot of straw covered with building or waterproof paper will assist in preventing pollution. (Avoid use of tar paper.)

Avoid leaky roofs. Exclude drifting snow.

Where labour permits, grain too moist to be threshed may often be cooked and carried over satisfactorily to thresh at a later date.

There are no practical ways of drying tough grain on the farm.

Further particulars on farm storage of grain may be had by writing to your Provincial Department of Agriculture.

Farmers Asked to Arrange For Grain Storage Now

There are prospects for an unprecedented bumper crop in Western Canada in 1942. Again this year storage space in public grain elevators is limited and initial delivery quota allotments are small. Farmers are advised, therefore, to provide for storage space on the farm now.

Owing to the fact that lumber is scarce, the construction of permanent granaries will not be possible in most cases. Success in storing the crop, therefore, will depend to a large extent upon the ability of farmers to devise suitable temporary or emergency storage.

The Alberta Department of Agriculture Circular No. 34, "Suggestions for Storing Grain Crops on the Farm," lists a number of methods by which grain might be stored temporarily. A copy of this circular may be obtained on application to Agricultural Extension Service, Dept. of Agriculture.

District Rancher Shoots Calf Instead of Bear

Dave McMurry, rancher in the Bearberry district, proved to be a very poor marksman on a recent early morning. He heard a calf bawling and as he rode over to investigate the cause, he discovered a big, black bear in the act of killing a choice veal sucker, while the cow was putting up a desperate battle to save her offspring.

Without a moment's hesitation Dave took aim with his rifle and pulled the trigger. Bang! He missed the bear and killed the calf.

Better Jams Made on Sugar Ration

In the minds of the housewives doing preserving and making jam these days is the ever-present question, will the reduced sugar allowance made for preserving and canning keep the fruit as well as the quantities of sugar formerly used? The answer is yes. According to all tests made by the Consumer Section, Dept. of Agriculture, it is found that jams and preserved fruit keep just as well as they did with the old cup for cup measurements. They are also better for health and have a better color and truer fruit flavor.

Flies Are Serious Menace to Health

Flies, especially the common house fly, are a menace to health, particularly during the summer and autumn. The part the house fly plays in spreading dangerous diseases such as infantile diarrhoea, typhoid, and tuberculosis is fairly well known. Flies have long been suspected as possible carriers of infantile paralysis (poliomyelitis), say officials of the Division of Entomology, Dominion Department of Agriculture.

In the summer of 1941, scientists working in Connecticut and Alabama demonstrated the presence of the virus of poliomyelitis in mixed collections of blow flies, house flies, and certain other species of flies taken in two localities where cases of infantile paralysis had occurred. This fact adds emphasis to the importance of fly control. Flies breed in garbage, manure, and other animal matter, and thus can be most effectively controlled by properly treating and disposing of such materials.

Measures should be taken to exclude flies from dwellings, and to protect foodstuffs from those that may gain entrance. The flies should be destroyed promptly. Leaflets containing further details on fly control may be obtained by writing to Publicity and Extensions Division, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

DON'T THRESH TOUGH GRAIN

Storage room for this present large crop will be scarce. A preference will certainly have to be given to dry grain simply because it can be handled with less danger of loss from heating. Farmers, therefore, will be well advised not to cut their grain this year until it is fairly well ripe and most certainly not to thresh it until it is thoroughly dry. Those who combine and swath will also, it seems, be well advised to harvest their grain rather over-ripe than to run the risk of having green kernels or green weed seeds present in their threshed grain, for even a small percentage of green kernels of either grain or weeds can start heating in the grain. Much grain will certainly this year have to be stored on the farms. Grain, therefore, which bin-burns or goes out of condition will be a direct loss to the farmer.

It would appear then that any extra care used this year to ensure that grain is thoroughly ripe before cutting and thoroughly dry before harvesting will tend to avoid losses to farmers, and also help in making available more storage room in elevators, because tough grain necessarily takes up more elevator space than does dry grain.

CHAPTER XXXVI.

It will be a beautiful wedding. Tamar thought as she watched the florists arranging the banks of flowers against the fireplace. The tall white tapers in the candelabra, the white satin ribbon streamers marking off the places for the bride and groom and their attendants, the soft glow of the lamps that would presently be lighted—these things Selby must have.

Tamar paused for a moment to step through the swinging doors to the long dining room. All of the tradition of Sheridan weddings was being carried out.

Old Mammy Topic stood by the table, white suit stiffly elegant, checking over the silver. The big urns and accessories stood on their polished trays; the crystal shone with fire, the snowy linen dropped into voluminous lengths to the floor about the groaning table.

Tamar could hear the servants moving about quietly in the kitchen, and the softly subdued chatter and confusion that marks preparation for an important event.

Pinecrest was having a wedding! The lawns were sans leaves, the long drives had been swept, the trailing vines caught back, the old trees bent their heads in waiting.

As she glanced out the hall window, Tamar saw a station wagon turn in at the drive. That would be the second cousins from Atlanta coming in on the 11 o'clock train. She ran for the stairs. Right now there were tears trembling on her lashes because everything was so beautiful, and because Selby would be leaving for Boston, and because well just because.

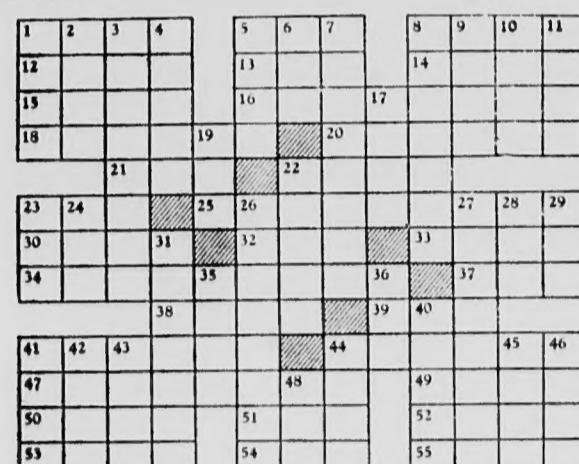

Tamar hurried up to the room she had shared with Selby, which by this time would be one of wildest confusion. Missy would be standing about with her mouth full of pins, aching checking over the silver. The big thing—no matter what—or just obey one more command from her beloved mistress. Little Miss Abernathy, the seamstress, would be critically eyeing the handiwork of her old wrinkled hands; and Selby—Selby would be there only in the flesh.

Presently there would arrive the six other girls and the ushers—all laughing and dressed up in picturesque colors and severe black and white. Then there would be just time for a quick look at the arriving guests and then Lohengrin.

Selby was standing there glowingly radiant. "Tamar! Everything is perfect. Look at this gown it couldn't be sweeter than if it had been 10 years in the making. Oh, Missy don't start crying again. There's nothing to cry about. I'd think you'd be glad to get rid of me!"

Selby pulled out a drawer. "Here, child, take this sweater and skirt for a present and run down like a good girl and ask mother if she can come up now."

The next hour the guests arrived, the principals of the ceremony were all there—excepting Christopher, the groom, and Dick, the best man. Tamar looked anxiously at her watch once more. Ten till twelve. Oh dear, where can they be? she wondered. Thank goodness Selby didn't know yet that they hadn't come.

Tamar went down the back stairs and crept cautiously into the kitchen hall. "Missy," she whispered. "Ask Mr. Todd, Ranny—to come here."

She watched through the crack in the doorway while Missy went up to the group in the conservatory where the attendants were chatting pleasantly. Missy whispered in Ranny's ear and he quickly left them. How handsome he looked as he crossed the room. His broad shoulders well back, his tall figure proud in its bearing.

As Ranny opened the door Tamar saw a long black limousine pass the window. "Oh, thank heaven!" she gasped. "There they are, Ranny. I was so afraid that something had happened. Get back to your duty..." She gave him a quick smile and ran toward the stairs. "Wait—" she stopped him. "Do you have the ring?"

"Safe as safe!" he patted an inner breast pocket. "Wait—Tamar! You look lovely. I—" he stopped inadequately.

This is just what Selby wants, Tamar thought as the minister began in a clear strong voice. Her back toward the sea of faces, friends of the Sheridans, beloved people of long years of close association. The air was sweet with the scent of roses and lilies of the valley.

Then it was over, and the bridegroom had kissed his bride, and now it was Tamar's turn to kiss Mrs. Christopher Sande.

Congratulations, best wishes, glimpses of the wedding gifts in the big game room upstairs, servants serving trays of frosted drinks. Selby cutting the wedding cake, with Christopher's hand on her to guide the knife down through the magnificence of white tiers.

"You are a beautiful bride, Selby," Tamar managed to whisper just before they hurried up to let Selby's mother help her with the going-away suit.

Then Selby was ready and she asked Tamar to run on downstairs so she could have one more minute with her mother and father. Tamar smiled at her and hurried along. "Is she coming?" asked some one quickly. Then the girls grouped themselves at the foot of the big stairway anxious for the bride's reappearance.

"Just time to get to the airport at Atlanta," said Dick methodically to the bridgeroom, who stood with one foot on the first step.

Then Christopher went up them, two at a time, at the sound of an opening door above. Another moment and together they made the turn at the landing.

"The bridal bouquet, Mrs. Sande!" cried one of the girls.

Selby paused and leaned over the walnut rail. "Ready!"

"Tamar! Oh, Tamar!" some one cried enviously.

"Who else would I want to have my bouquet?" Selby whispered into Tamar's ear as she swept a good-by kiss to her cheek.

Then the guests rushed pell-mell to the long verandah to throw rice and old shoes.

Tamar felt a hand on her arm. "I've got my car at the back door, and we can sneak away, Tam, so you won't see the last farewells. I'll take you down the old trail through the Sheridan's peach orchard."

Tamar silently squeezed Ranny's hand. Her eyes were ridiculously dimmed with tears and the bridal bouquet was pressed tightly in her arms.

It was good to feel Ranny's hand about hers as they ran swiftly so that they could get out of the drive and away to the old road before the limousine started up.

Ranny smiled at her engagingly. "It was tops, wasn't it?"

"Beautiful. Selby was the loveliest bride I ever saw," she said, remembering the high color on Selby's cheeks, the gold of her thick curly hair clustered about the veil. The catch in her throat at their parting was not quite so painful at this moment. Selby would be back for a visit soon even if Chris were through temporarily at the Cricket Hill.

As soon as they started up operations again he was going to be needed. Then the girls grouped themselves at the foot of the big stairway anxious for the bride's reappearance.

"Just time to get to the airport at Atlanta," said Dick methodically to the bridgeroom, who stood with one foot on the first step.

Then Christopher went up them, two at a time, at the sound of an opening door above. Another moment and together they made the turn at the landing.

"The bridal bouquet, Mrs. Sande!" cried one of the girls.

Selby paused and leaned over the walnut rail. "Ready!"

"Tamar! Oh, Tamar!" some one cried enviously.

"Who else would I want to have my bouquet?" Selby whispered into Tamar's ear as she swept a good-by kiss to her cheek.

Then the guests rushed pell-mell to the long verandah to throw rice and old shoes.

Tamar felt a hand on her arm. "I've got my car at the back door, and we can sneak away, Tam, so you

He drove in between the two tall brownstone columns at Shadwell and up to the portico, but did not stop. Instead, he took the drive that led to the stables and out past the wooded lot toward the Chestatee.

Tamar did not speak. It hadn't yet occurred to her that she had left her wraps, her luggage and her father at Pinecrest.

Ranny drew the car up at the edge of the footpath that ran along the river. He slipped his arms out of his dinner jacket, lifted the robe from Tamar and held out the coat. She slipped her arms through his sleeves.

He got out of the car and went to her door and opened it. Taking her hand he led her to their favorite tree. She held the long blue skirt aside so that she would not step on its hem, walking softly over the browning moss and the rustling leaves.

Ranny led her to the wishing stone in their Fairy Ring of childhood days. He turned her about three times. "Make a wish, Tamar, and close your eyes."

She obeyed him, smiling as he began to count to 10 after the wish. The old ceremony. He stopped on eight. "Now, Miss Randolph, would it be taking too much for granted to ask you to hold them closed for 10 seconds?"

She felt his lips upon hers. It was much longer than 10 seconds. "Ranny," she whispered.

"Todd has the floor, Miss Randolph. Will you marry me?"

Tamar's eyes opened slowly. Their blue was the color of heaven above the Chestatee. "Ranny," she said solemnly. "That's the only wish I ever made on that darned stone that came true!"

OUR FAMILY went through hard times once. It taught us that you can't keep your independence without foresight and sacrifice. We learned what we could do without when we had to. So we know that a real nest-egg means more than just compulsory savings. It means all the War Savings Stamps and Certificates we can lay our hands on.

They're safe. And they're an investment every Canadian should make. Why? Because they help equip our fighting men to protect everything we've got. And because, too, they pay back $5.00 for every $1.00 we put aside now. We've got to win this war no matter what it costs — and we've got to prepare against the time when the boys come home.

Buy War Savings Stamps from druggists, banks, post offices, telephone offices, department stores, grocers, tobacconists and other retail stores. Certificates may be purchased for immediate delivery in denominations of $5, $10, $25 from Banks, Trust Companies and Post Offices.

The Alberta Pacific Grain Company has completed arrangements with the Wheat Board for the handling of wheat of the 1942 crop delivered to the Wheat Board through Alberta Pacific elevators.

The operating basis and margins provided in this agreement, under which all elevator companies will operate, are not exactly the same as recently announced by the Alberta Pacific, but the benefits to producers generally will be as substantial as those outlined in our announcement. The reduced margins this year, when compared to those of last year, will result in benefits to farmers ranging from  $\frac{1}{2}$ c to 2c a bushel.
